

OPERATION FORCED DECARES FATHER OF TUMOR BABY

WIFE ALL OVER REMOVAL OF INFANT

'Take Her' Was Order, Father Says on Vasco Child

New York, April 27 (AP)—While Helen Vasco progressed toward recovery today from the removal of an eye physicians said was afflicted with a malignant tumor, John Vasco, her father, declared the operation was performed under pressure and that he had not consented to it.

Mrs. Vasco was prostrated by the strain of the separation from her daughter and the attendant controversy.

Vasco, an immigrant laborer, resided at his home in Hastings-on-Hudson to attend his wife, and said that authorities who ordered the operation on the ground it was necessary to save the young girl's life "broke my wife's heart—she been sick ever since."

"My wife is sick in bed and I cannot leave her," he said. "I can't see the baby because I've got to watch my wife. She says if baby die, she die, too. I'm afraid the baby won't get well."

Asked if he and his wife had consented to the operation, Vasco said: "I don't know. I was told by Judge George W. Smyth of Westchester Children's Court ordered. Vasco exclaimed:

"No. That's not true. The judge talked for three hours. Then my wife she got to go home to our other children. Then the judge said to these big men 'Take her,' and the men took her away."

The jobless man is Murray E. Chase, 37, of Cole ave., Haverhill, who works as a traveling salesman when he has a job.

The wife, he married 18 years ago, Mrs. Josephine Chase, seeks custody of four children and a decree that she is living apart for "justifiable cause."

Judge Dow indicated that he would grant Mrs. Chase custody of the children but would not include "justifiable" in the decree that she is living apart. He admitted the question of support was a puzzle.

TEACHERS' UNION PROPOSES

Chicago Mayor to Force Tax Payments for Salaries

Chicago, April 27 (AP)—Out of the whirlwind of near-panic activities there came to Chicago unpaid teachers today a new ray of hope that their financial privations may come to an end through legislative action.

It came from Mayor Edward J. Kelly after two days of near-panic conditions, which reached the peak yesterday when teachers beat against the barricaded doors of the Chicago Title and Trust Co. to get the First National Bank, and marched on the City Hall, shouting charges that the city bankers had refused them aid by failing to purchase tax warrants.

"I have agreed with the bankers to set to cut expenses of the schools board," the mayor told them. "When this is done and legislation is passed to force tax payments, the bankers will advance a substantial amount of money."

In Springfield today Mayor Kelly hopes for progress before the Legislature, with his program, which provides for drastic retrenchment of school operating expenses and asking the General Assembly to break a tax strike in Chicago which has been one of the stumbling blocks toward putting the school system out of the financial quagmire in which it has been struggling the past few years.

The success of this mission apparently hinges the fate of 220 elementary schools, 30 junior high schools, 24 high schools and two colleges, employing in the neighborhood of 14,000 teachers.

For months have been paying cents for the occasional receipt of part payment of their salaries.

There will be no further demonstrations for now (that we have a guarantee of aid," said John H. Franken, a teacher who led the 300 demonstrators in the march yesterday, which police finally quelled after the forms had been torn. Five teachers were injured, none seriously.

Before leaving the First National to march on City Hall, the teachers picked a vice-president to attend repeating tactics they employed the previous day when they, Charles G. Dawes shouted "he will with trouble makers," when he was attempting to explain the teachers' viewpoint of the school crisis.

The Tropsen child was turned into a cellar by a white man near the same section in Brooklyn where five similar crimes have been perpetrated within the past year.

Fr. Corrigan Says Roosevelt Saves U. S. From Bankruptcy

The accomplishments of the Roosevelt administration were commended by the Rev. James J. Corrigan, R. J., at a testimonial dinner to Frederick V. McManis, president of Cambridge and chairman of the House Committee on the City.

Father Corrigan said that President Roosevelt deserved the support of every man who stands in the country today for his accomplishment in divorcing commercial and investment banking. He pointed out that if the President had accomplished nothing further in his administration, he still deserves the support of every man who stands in the country today for his accomplishment in divorcing commercial and investment banking.

AVERTED BANKRUPTCY

He asserted that the nation faced a national bankruptcy when Roosevelt was inaugurated March 4, and that despite the opposition by the possible failure of many banks.

Then he showed how President Roosevelt stepped in and by means of the national bank holiday averted the danger. When the holiday ended, the situation had been saved.

SPOTTED FOOD BRINGS DEATH TO 2 MEN

Gloucester, April 27—Potomac poisoning, caused by canned food which had spoiled, resulted in the death of two men and the serious illness of a Lowell boy, officials here are convinced today.

The tragedy was revealed when Carlisle V. Watson, 12, son of a wealthy Lowell shoe manufacturer, rowed from his father's yacht, La Bette, despite his own illness, to bring word to the coast guard base here that his two companions would not wake up.

SON OF LOWELL MAN Recovering From Ordeal on Yacht

The boy was taken ashore and Capt. Mason was rushed to the Addison Gilbert Hospital, where he died late last night. The Watson boy was also treated at the hospital, but last night he had recovered sufficiently to be allowed to return to his home.

He had been in poor health and returned from Florida only last week. Doctors advised that he spend several months aboard the yacht. Young Morrison was seized by the parents to look after the boy and tutor him during the trip.

Huttman Helpless on Pay Cut, He Says

Because Mayor Curley refused to consent to pay cuts, Huttman said today that he was helpless in the matter of avoiding it.

"There was only one avenue open to me, and that was a protest to the mayor. I have done so, and he refuses to reconsider," Huttman said.

SENATE BALKS CONFIRMATION MRS. ROSS

Washington, April 27 (AP)—A Senate objection prevented Mrs. Sallie Taylor Ross of Wyoming from being named and confirmed in a single day as the first woman director of the United States mint. Within a few hours after President Roosevelt sent to the Senate the name of Mrs. Ross—who already holds the distinction of being the first woman to be a state governor—an effort was made by Senator Kendrick (D) of Wyoming, to have her appointment confirmed. Senator Reed (R) of Pa., although expressing personal friendship and admiration for Mrs. Ross, served notice he would object unless Kendrick withdrew his request to disapprove with the ordinary committee consideration. The suggestion was withdrawn. If confirmed, Mrs. Ross will be in charge of making all gold, silver and copper coins used in this country. She also will supervise assay offices. Her nomination was sent to the Senate along with those of Laurence A. Steinhardt of New York and to be minister to Sweden and Charles Wyanski, Jr., of Massachusetts to be solicitor of the Labor Department. Mrs. Ross was elected to the governorship of the state of Wyoming, 1924, succeeding her husband, who had died a few weeks before while in office. She served two years. She will succeed R. J. Grant of Colorado, who resigned today after 10 years' service in federal government's central mint at Shanghai.

THE USUAL SOCIAL AUDIENCE ATTENDED the performance of "Riders of the Sea" and "The Playboys of the Western World" at the Hollis Street Theatre last evening for the benefit of the welfare department of the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital.

Feeling festive, we dropped into the Russian Bear for dinner after two weeks on the road, and we got a real banquet, and we got it. To the spirited music of "The Song of the Flame" and Russian folk dances we dined on caviar and blini, and a royal Russian feast. Madame who greeted us was so cordial, the waiters in their gay tunics and the pretty waitresses with their native headgear so attractive, we imagined we were once more far away from the cold rains of Boston in some romantic place where dim lights and soft music breathed romance.

In so short a time, this unique rendezvous has become a landmark and it is such a perfect place for a quiet dinner, for two, maybe . . . or a jolly place for a group to eat, drink and be very merry . . . the Russian chef, who has spent 60 years tending the palates of emperors, excels with eggs à la Russian, which means stuffed with caviar, black and red surrounded with rosy tomatoes, chilled olives and other delicacies.

Then we had barley mushroom soup, a real soup that men enjoy and those yummy pastries stuffed with meat commencing with p . . . we cannot spell nor pronounce it. Dr. Hay and his rabbit foot completely forgotten, we bit into the most delectable fillet mignon with fresh peas, carrots and French fried potatoes . . . endive salad, rum cake and ice cream, Russian cheese and dent-tasse . . . and puffed at real Russian cigarettes as we talked on to the theater . . . if we had been in New York on a real bender, we couldn't have enjoyed the evening more.

And because we are sure you want to hear what the robins are singing we will tell you tomorrow who was at the play . . . it will take a column for that . . .

Dudley Wolfe Returns From Europe

DUDLEY WOLFE, SON OF Mrs. J. D. Bairdridge of Commonwealth ave., arrives in New York this week from Europe . . . he comes back as navigator on a U. S. transport steamer, we understand . . . not to save the price of his ticket, mind you, because Mr. Wolfe is one of Boston's wealthiest and most eligible young men, but for the thrill of the thing. You remember he entered the Prince of Wales Atlantic ocean race last year with his yacht the Highland Light . . .

Have you received one of the interesting announcements that Allen McKisnook and Elizabeth Wheeler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James W. Wheeler of Chestnut Hill, will buy, build or lease you a home at the most interesting prices . . . This pretty post-dentebante has gone into the real estate business in a BIG way and we wish her every success!

Mrs. S. Parker Bremer, who journeyed to Mallorca and ports of call this spring with a fascinating blonde from New York, is still on the enchanted isle . . . but she and her friend have decided to live on separate islands of the island. We wondered how far two such beautiful fairies will travel together without getting their dates mixed . . .

And we hear that Mrs. Carl Keller, member of the Chilton Club and a former resident of Lewiston, has returned from abroad with her hair bobbed. She had her haircut done in Italy . . . you know the best barbers are Italians.

"Hush Committee" Is Active

MISS MARIAN HOMANS was no doubt regretful that she was unable to attend the performance at the Hollis Street Theatre, last evening . . . her sister, Miss Fanny, was on the committee of the welfare department of the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital, which benefited . . . Miss Marian is on her way South on her annual visit to Tuskegee College, in which she is intensely interested . . .

We hear that the Junior League's "hush committee" have recruited out getting a line on the debutantes who will be presented this coming season . . . they have about decided that if they wish to keep up the personnel of the members, knowing something more than what a kind friend may tell them might be helpful . . . you know, at present the system is that one member writes a letter proposing a debutante, another member seconds the motion and three others add the weight of their support . . . and that is usually all that is required. But some of the Old Guard are complaining that the League is becoming as exclusive as Boston Common . . . therefore the "girl scouts" . . .

Another innovation, we hear, is the Grandmother's League . . . a step farther than the Parents' League . . . so many of the young group are now married with children, it puts the Parents' League into the third generation now.

Will Live in an Apartment

WHEN B. DEVEREAUX BARKER and Jean Lamont Proctor are united in the hands of holy wedlock they will reside at 133 Marlborough st., one of the sniftest apartment houses in the city . . . 138 and The Agassiz, which is on the corner of Commonwealth and Exeter, have stood for something in this town as a city address for some time . . .

Glimpsed at Blossom Time the other night were Mr. and Mrs. Ernest B. Dane, the Tony Parkers, the Arthur Dehon Hills, Jr., Grace Miles, Barbara Breezy, David Cooke and Arthur Shurcliff . . . It looked like a dinner theater party from where we were . . . they all appeared to be together.

Mrs. Charles Mixer gave a luncheon yesterday; among the guests were Mrs. Alice West Mevius, who has recently returned from Chicago, where she visited her daughter, Mrs. Potter Palmer, 2d, and her young son, Mr. W. R. Rowe; Mrs. Chandler Robbins, Mrs. B. Devereaux Barker, and Mrs. Gerald Boardman, who is also to be a grandmother in June.

BOOKS---And a Number of Things

By Charles Hanson Towne

A certain ex-editor got in telling on the other day of some experiences of his after he had resigned, several years back, from the big magazine of which he had been the head. On the first morning when he awakened a free lance and looked across his room at his typewriter a humming noise came to him. Only that instrument, and what might be in his head, stood between him and loudly needs. His problem was what to write about! What to put upon paper! He had preached, to you authors, the folly of attempting to write about something of which they knew nothing. "Touch only upon those subjects with which you are familiar," he had repeatedly said. Surely the fear that came over him was something he knew a great deal; and so at once he wrote and mumbled out an essay that consumed subject, which now utterly possessed him. He said it did not come back. From then on the fear was vanquished. But it might easily have been otherwise! He said he would advise no one to start into the freelance field without some definite aim. He knew, in his own case, there were certain things he could not do. He could not write about himself. He was ruthless in his self-analysis. Fortunately, he had acquired the habit of work. To go to a desk at a prescribed time each morning was part of him—second nature; and he was sensible enough to realize that the only way to accomplish anything was to write a certain amount each day, no matter what his mood. It might be hard to get at one's task; but get at it he would. He determined upon one thing: he would never allow himself to be without some specified assignment, no matter how small. Book reviews even would help out. He got all that he could, and his old training in the writing of magazine editorials helped him now.

But before he came upon the scene each morning he tried to make him express himself somehow, if only in the casual taking of a note or two he decided that he would.

RECEPTION TO PRECEDE SPRING DRAMA LUNCHEON

Rebekah Hobbs in Charge of Event

The Women's Republican Club of Massachusetts are arranging a spring drama luncheon to be given next Tuesday at one o'clock in honor of Theresa Heilburn, Judith Anderson and Helen Westley, all prominent in the Theater Guild organization. The luncheon will be preceded by a reception in the French room of the club at 12:30. Miss Heilburn, who will give an address on "What Is Happening to the Theater Today," is one of the six directors of the Theater Guild, and has staged many of their productions.

Miss Anderson plays the leading woman's role in "The Mask and the Face," a Guild production, which will be in Boston during the week of May 1.

Miss Westley is also one of the directors of the Theater Guild, and will be remembered for her acting of Frau Lucan in "Baudoin in Vienna" in Boston last fall.

Miss Rebekah Hobbs, director of publicity for the Republican Club, is in charge of arrangements for the luncheon which is open to members and friends of the club.

Chatty Notes of Social Circles

TICKETS FOR THE FASHION SHOW to be held the afternoon of May 5, at Mrs. Richard M. Saltonstall's Chestnut Hill estate, are being taken up with much enthusiasm. Mrs. John Monaghan of Brookline, who is one of the members of the committee for this event has distributed all her quota, being the first to have sold her allotment.

MISS MARY ESTHER COOP will write no less than a thousand words on a book. But a book would take a long time to finish. There must be other stray jobs he could capture. He approached a syndicate, and found, fortunately, remunerative work with one, which occupied only a fraction of his weekly allotment.

But—and this you may not understand—he became strangely lenient. He missed callers, and (please do not smile, for we are all creatures of habit) he missed the constant ringing of the telephone. The afternoon, which he had long wished to possess for himself in his busiest editorial days, were often trying hours get through.

Points About the Fashionables
By Dorothy Whipple Fry

AMONG the society folk glimpsed at "Of Thee I Sing" were Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Murdoch. Mrs. Murdoch was garbed in a simple white frock. Mrs. Virginia Curtis was also among those present looking radiant in a black evening gown, smart in line and delectable. She wore a spray of gardenia and a sable coat.

Mrs. Ward Paine appeared in a green gown looking as lovely as ever with her sparkling blue eyes and her radiant smile.

Mrs. Richard Howe of Chestnut Hill wore a black velvet evening frock trimmed with ermine. She is tall and slender with alabaster skin.

Miss Virginia Cowles of New York, who is visiting in Boston, wore a gown of black and yellow with dainty ruffles.

We glimpsed many of those strikingly effective coat-lapel jackets that are being so widely worn with the huge white sleeves and the light gay-ninety waist line.

Mrs. Robert Holt of Lexington was garbed in a black lace evening frock with a cloth fur trimmed collar.

Miss Lucy Aspinwall looked quite chic in a smart black ermine evening outfit, lovely with her golden wavy hair.

ERL, debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest R. Cooper of Puller, West Newbury, has recently returned from Bermuda where she enjoyed the Easter vacation at the Princess.

How can these expensive coffees COST YOU SO LITTLE

A & P Coffees are expensive coffees — at the plantations in South America. As the world's largest coffee buyer, we always have first choice of the crops. We pay an extra premium, when necessary, to obtain the quality we insist upon.

But these fine coffees cost you little because we bring them to you from the planter direct—bought, shipped, distributed, roasted and sold—all by A & P and all at one small profit.

And because they are roasted in our widely distributed coffee roasting plants, we are able to deliver them frequently to your neighborhood A & P Store, inexpensively packed, still in the bean, with all the flavor of freshly roasted coffee protected by nature's own unbroken seal.

Your coffee is then ground before your eyes exactly right for your method of making—and the aroma of oven-fresh coffee in every A & P Store is your guarantee of the natural freshness of A & P Coffee.

This is A & P Coffee Service. No other coffee merchant has it. So A & P alone can offer you these expensive coffees at these low prices.

AND REMEMBER, the coffee you like best is the best for you, no matter what it costs.

GILLIS OUT FOR MAYOR AGAIN

A new deal for Newburyport is brewing in the mind of Andrew J. "Boss" Gillis, former bad-boy mayor, who revealed his intention of running again for the mayoralty next fall in a speech at Oliver Ames Post, American Legion, in the Beach Bay.

Gillis declared that the present administration has had its chance and that the city is now "on the rocks" under their guidance.

Thereupon he will re-enter the lists with his slogan, "Give the city back to the people." He was defeated for re-election in 1931 by Mayor Gayden Morrill.

Radio Test Ends in Recovery of Auto Stolen in Revere

The aid of radio in police work was convincingly demonstrated to Revere police with the recovery of a stolen auto a few minutes after its theft was reported by the owner, Irwin Durbor of Maiden st., Everett.

By arrangement with Arlington police Revere messages were put on the air as a radio test. Capt. William E. Tappan sent the report over the teletype and Arlington police immediately put the description and registration of the machine, which had been stolen from Winthrop ave., Southmont, on the air.

The message was picked up by an auto demonstrating the police radio in Revere and the machine was set out in search of the stolen car. It was discovered abandoned in a park near Garfield ave. The owner was informed of the recovery of his machine less than five minutes after he had reported it as stolen.

RAIL WORKERS BALK AT SHIFT

Employees of the Boston & Albany Railroad have forwarded copies of their resolution of protest against the plan to abolish several offices here and have the work done in western office to Gov. Ely, Mayor Curley, the Chamber of Commerce and several other organizations.

The resolution points out that 63 people employed here would be thrown out of work. The plan calls for the abolishing of the offices of auditors of freight and passenger accounts here.

When you leave the theatre after seeing this picture we believe you will understand why President Roosevelt permitted the producers to use the title of his book "Looking Forward." We believe you will think of it as one of the strongest human dramas you have ever witnessed!

CLARENCE BROWN'S Production LOOKING FORWARD

So true, so genuine are these characters... the wife who was too selfish to give up her luxuries... the old, discharged employee who gives courage and strength to the despairing spirits of those about him... the romance, the joy, the tears of these people who are flesh and blood on the screen. GREAT is a mild word for this picture.

"SCHOOL OF CLOTHES" STRESSES SIMPLICITY FOR CHILDREN; COTTONS BEST

The Easier Clothes Are to Wear and to Wash the Better They Are for Children

By Margaret Matson

WE HAVE BEEN ASKED to say a word or two about children's clothes—what are the fashions, what new ideas are there? We find everyone agreeing that the easier clothes are to wear and to wash, the better they fill the needs of both mothers and children. Psychologists tell us that dressing children in odd clothes that do not comply with the current fashions has a very vital effect upon their natures. Children are no longer considered ornaments to be tricked out and paraded before guests to serve one's vanity, fortunately for them. We have grown more civilized than that. And, too, mothers are beginning to learn that it is dangerous economy to buy clothes so large that they breed restlessness on the part of the youngsters. When clothes were expensive and had to be made of fine silks and wools, one can see the logic of making a child "grow into them," but with the advent of inexpensive cottons—and a minimum of clothing at that—there is no need for such punishment.

Little girls' dresses are being made very largely of cottons and sheer handkerchief linens. Playtime clothes are of seersuckers that are not ironing, of durain that looks like linen, is very sturdy and doesn't crush as linen does, of ginghams both plaid and plain, and of printed percales. All these fabrics are decidedly practical.

Party frocks are likely to be of rosebud dimity, dotted Swiss, little baidies and organdies, and the other sheer cottons that one might mention, as well as handkerchief linen and the simpler silks. Even at parties, mothers realize that children must be free to forget their clothes, and that the clothes themselves must be such that spilled refreshments cannot spoil tragedy. Lengths vary. Play clothes usually are as brief as they can be, but dress range from just above the knee to five or six inches shorter, depending both upon the child's proportions and upon the design of the frock. Little boys these days, look as manly as can be in little suits of shorts, coats and blouses. Linens, sturdy cottons or light-weight wools usually make the shorts and coats, with plain cottons or finely checked or striped shirtings for the blouses. And this same sort of outfit sets the pace for play clothes and dress clothes alike, varying only in the type of fabric used.

Underwear has been simplified to the point where one should think no further improvement were needed. Buttons that little fingers can button, and that won't break in the tubing—fastenings that are few and simple—panties sufficiently brief to keep them from peeping from beneath the dresses or bloomers—and nothing that binds at the waistline or around the legs. One mother has found that to buy several pairs of plain tan socks—about the color of the skin—saves a great deal on the budget. And so she buys them as she does her own—several pairs of the same color which, as one after the other wears out, she can substitute mates. Too, it saves the difficulty of matching colors as well. The stockings match the legs and all else may be as it pleases.

COTTONS AND LINENS LEAD FOR PARTIES AND PLAYTIME

Little Margaret Ann and Betty Cole played model for us. Betty, 9, is wearing a party dress of handkerchief linen in orchid and yellow. Margaret Ann, 4, has her party frock of rosebud dimity with organdie sleeves and tucked vestee.

Here are the children in their playclothes. Margaret Ann in a playsuit of striped seersucker; Betty in striped durain, a linen finished fabric that doesn't crush. Their shoes should be patent leather pumps for parties and sturdier sandals or oxfords for play. (For information concerning these clothes, please inquire of Margaret Matson.)

Backache Must Be Cared for at Once

By DR. R. S. COPELAND

BACKACHES is a common and disabling condition. It is not a disease, but a symptom or sign of some disturbance in the body. It is too often incorrectly called "lumbago," and ascribed.

Backache may be one sign of several different conditions. To decide upon the cause, several factors must be taken into consideration. First of these is the location of the pain. Chances are of the pain, time of its occurrence.

A common type is the backache due to a sprain of the sacro-lumbar articulation. This is a sensitive joint located at the lowest portion of the spine. It marks the place of contact between the spine and the pelvis. The strain is caused by a fall, blow or sudden twist. In such cases the attacks are brought on by long continued standing, bending, reclining or sitting. Although the pain is localized in the joint, the discomfort is more that of a general backache.

Backache is frequently due to arthritis or inflammation of a joint. Often the inflammation can be traced to a focal infection quite distant from the back. It may be due to infected teeth, tonsils, or sinuses, or to some other localized infection in the body.

X-ray pictures aid the physician to determine the exact cause of the backache. It is due to a sacro-lumbar strain this joint will appear stretched in the picture. Arthritis will reveal definite signs of inflammation of the joint. When stones of the kidney are suspected, an X-ray picture will reveal them.

In cases of weak back where the X-ray picture reveals no changes and pain is caused by the slightest exertion, mechanical support of the back is required. There are many appliances and devices for the relief of this type of backache. In most instances a simple corset or abdominal belt gives adequate support and is a beneficial as other more expensive braces.

Backaches should never be neglected. Respect the health of your body and heed all the warning signs given you by nature. The trouble can be cured when immediate attention is given.

GOOD MANNERS

Eating Artichokes

PERL off a leaf of the artichoke. Dip the soft, light-colored end into the sauce or melted butter, then scrape off between the teeth the edible portion at the soft end and put the remainder of the leaf on the side of the plate.

When you reach at the bottom or "heart" of the artichoke, remove the soft prickly top part, unless this has been removed before the artichoke is brought to the table, and eat this delicious "heart" with a fork, or with a knife and fork.

It is best to serve artichokes as a separate course—a vegetable artichoke. But whether they are served as a separate course or as a vegetable accompaniment of the main course, a finger-bowl should be served with them.

Suggestions in Simple Dress of White for the Cooking for the Bride Graduation

By MARTHA LEE

"AREN'T THERE any recipes that I can use in my kitchenette cookery that won't leave me a collection of left-overs that are just waste as far as we're concerned?" wails an October bride—and the question is repeated by many in our Tuesday evening cooking school for brides.

The average recipe usually will serve six moderately or four "big eaters," so for two you can, in most cases, cut the ingredients in thirds or in halves. In case the divided recipe calls for less than 1 egg, beat up a whole egg until it yours easily, then measure it with a standard measuring cup and divide it. It rarely does much harm to use a little more egg than the divided recipe calls for, so you can, if you wish, use the whole egg and take out one or two tablespoonsful of any other liquid used.

You will need utensils sized for two—a 3 in. or 6 in. layer cake pan, a six-inch muffin pan and for pie plates what could be nicer than the heat-proof glass individual pie plates, plain or etched.

It is only for the family of two. One-half a box of berries can be used for dessert with cream and sugar, and the other half in a cake or gelatine.

For coffee making there is the two-cup pot for drip coffee that solves the problem of perfect coffee to perfection. And for two we certainly advise tea balls—the fat ones that make two cups from one tea ball.

Does that help at all?

Two Strings to Bow, She Tells Miss Fairfax

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am a self-supporting girl and have been going with two boys for the past year. One of them is two years younger than I am, and the other several years older. I like both of them very much, and have been wondering if it is fair for me to go with them both at the same time. Each of the boys knows about the other, and they seem to accept things as they are, but sometimes they ask if I am going to continue to have two boy friends forever.

WONDERING. As the arrangement is perfectly understood among all three of you, I can't possibly see any objection to this three-some, which seems to be a triumph of amiability all around. You have evidently been reading Rory O'Keeffe's Advice: "There's Luck in Odd Numbers."

An Answer to "Discouraged"

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I read a letter signed "Discouraged" in your column recently. Food for thought, that! Here's my case. I am a married woman and have always been true. I thoroughly despised those who were not faithful to their marriage vows. About eighteen months ago I met a young man with whom I was associated in business work and made in love. I had no desire for such an affair, but I love him just the same, although I have not seen him for over a year, neither do I intend to see him again. How I would hate to be judged by "Discouraged." What is amusement? What is a married woman—then despises her infidel husband?

Dear Blue—In case you've forgotten, "Discouraged" is the name under which a married man wrote to this column. It seems he had had several affairs with married women and was disgusted of the none of them had been true to him. Evidently "Discouraged" was not suffering under an "inferiority complex," a lady who will be disloyal to her husband is not likely to be a model of fidelity to some other man.

DREADED

TIME!

The old story. "Cora's sick." She doesn't know science has found the way to block that kind of pain. Midol, the discovery of specialists, ends such suffering. It doesn't merely relieve the pain, but removes all possibility of such pain. And it does this for women who once had to spend the day in bed! Midol is a remedy that goes straight to the seat of this organic pain. You can't get the same result from any headache remedy. Midol is an absolute check for periodic pain throughout the period. Midol means that any woman can count upon absolute comfort. And it is perfectly harmless; it is not a narcotic. At any drug store, ten tiny tablets in a smart little box. Simply ask for Midol.

ROGERS LAIDS INFLATION

New Haven, Conn., April 27 (AP)—James Harvey Rogers, sterling professor of political economy at Yale, is an address before members of the Connecticut chapter, American Statistical Association, favored liberal Federal Reserve expansion.

"This, in my opinion," he said, "is the most radical and most completely controlling inflation which under present conditions can confidently be expected to bring forth and lasting relief."

Prof. Rogers said expansionist measures, to be effective, must provide for getting new funds to ready spenders. This seems to be forgotten by many of those most enthusiastically endorsing all sorts of paper money and other inflation plans.

Two Women Injured As Window Falls

Miss Esther Williams and Miss Betty Fishburne, both of whom refused police their addresses, to day were burning injuries they received when a plate glass window in the brokerage office of Livingstone & Co. fell to the sidewalk in front of 75 Federal st. Many pedestrians were impeded but the two women were the only ones to claim injury.

Berlin, April 27 (AP)—Dismissal of Theodore Duestenberg as "second leader" of the steel helmet veterans' organization was ordered by Franz Seidler, labor minister in the Hitler Cabinet and steel helmet chief.

Reports subsequently circulated in political and governmental circles that other highly-placed leaders, including Dr. Alfred Hugenberg, minister of economic and agriculture, and Foreign Minister Konstantin Von Neurath, would soon be ousted.

Only Eight, but This Girl Wins Radio License

Baltimore, April 27 (AP)—An eight-year-old girl, who sat on a thick dictionary as she could comfortably reach the table top, passed the federal examinations and was licensed a wireless operator here.

The girl, Jean Hudson of Laurel, Delaware, was given a ruling of 80 per cent by Examiner George E. Sterling at federal radio headquarters at Fort McHenry. She is believed to be the youngest licensed operator in the United States.

Starting started the tests by sending 10 words a minute, but Jean was far ahead of him, although that is all required of an amateur.

Then he stepped up his sending in 10 words a minute, and then in 20, the requirement for a commercial license, but the little blonde girl was with him all the way.

LINER RADIOS FOR AID

Montreal, April 27 (AP)—The signal service of the Department of Marine received a report here that the liner Dominica had requested assistance at the eastern end of Newfoundland Strait.

The N. S. McClean, an ice-breaker, reported she was proceeding to the assistance of the Dominica, 14 miles west of Cape George, and near Plouffe, N. S.

THE VOICE OF BROADWAY

By LOUIS SOBOL

Broadway Merry-Go-Round!

I've often considered seriously dropping the night routine for a few weeks and devoting my tours of duty to little obscure spots of Manhattan and my attention to obscure people.

The Russian quarter, what remains of the Ghetto—Chinatown, the Armenian section, pushcart row on upper Park ave, the garment center, along the docks, etc., etc. It's been my intention, for instance, to interview a street cleaner or a rug pedlar or a bond salesman, a stenographer or a salesgirl, a wharfinger or a truckman, a cop or a fireman, a scrubwoman. It's a grand idea on paper, but I never quite got around to it. Instead, six o'clock on an evening finds me leaving the office, journeying up Broadway for my nightly tour.

Often the quest for paragraph stuff is fruitless—sometimes because my observing facilities are numbing—sometimes because I arrive after a parade or a parade, sometimes because the particular avenue I have chosen is so crowded that I cannot speak to me. I rarely ask "What do you know?" I've learned after these four years that the question chills people's thoughts. It's only after you left that they suddenly remember something they might have given you. If they're very good friends they telephone to you and hand you the information. If they're very good friends, they pass the information along to the first columnist they meet. So you find it advisable to mingle with people and discuss Broadway, the latest play and somehow, somewhere, during the conversation, a bit of information leaks out, a paragraph, a story and you're set. Sometimes.

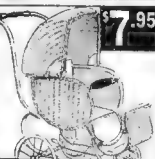

Your eyes and your ears are your best allies. At the Park Sunday night for instance, Eddie Cantor singing to Jimmy Durante's accompaniment provided a paragraph which I used in yesterday's column. Monday night at the Hi-tia, pretty Bobba Arnel sat a table away from Bert Taylor and Oliver McCarty. Bobba Arnel was Johnny Weismuller's wife once. Johnny Weismuller is now courting Lupa Velazquez. Lupa Velazquez was courted by Matt Taylor. It all ties up—in the Broadway manner. Small stuff—sure—but the Broadway tapestry is woven of such tiny threads. The other night I just missed Evelyn Nesbit at a night club—at least, I was informed she had been in. Had Harry K. Thaw entered at the time—there would have been a paragraph in which a columnist could have mused and pondered for the public's benefit to his heart's content. But Harry K. Thaw hasn't been at any of the night spots in months—and I'm not even sure it was Evelyn Nesbit that was there that particular night. However, even that affords me a line for I understand that this former tragic beauty of Broadway is to become an evangelist. When she does—if she does—II water most of our newspaper subscribers will have a picture of her. Thaw now an amateur aviator, etc.

The queerest situation that has come my way involves a beautiful Norwegian girl, an English nobleman.

Brown's Sad Story Horses and Money

The boxers are as earnest and determined as they ever were, while some of the decisions are as bad as any that have ever been given in a championship series. I do not make that statement merely as a matter of personal opinion. A large part of the crowd agrees with judging from the booing that has greeted some of the official awards.

"I would not have cared if I had lost the decision in my first trial bout," said Brown. "as that contest was pretty close. But when I win a bout easily I expect to get the award. But I didn't."

When the young heavyweight gets tired of trying to win medals, which are not of value when one goes to the store to buy food, he will go into business. He will learn where really that medal does not always get the decision. The people who really that place must first learn to get up off the canvas after receiving the word of a decision.

There are thousands of vacant seats in the Arena. The gallery, both north and south, is empty. Perhaps I am wrong, but I had charge of scabing the house for the nationals I would have offered those end seats in the gallery to the public at 50 cents. There would also have sold standing room for 50 cents. Thousands of extra fans would have attended the show. The enthusiasm would have been greater. This would have meant increased interest in amateur boxing.

Sam Emmons was in the lobby of the Garden when I dropped in to take a peek at the six-day bike race after the nationals ended. "I have sold thousands of bottles of beer during the six-day race," confessed Sam, "and I have not seen a single person who has insisted upon getting on a bike."

"Smith is only 21 years of age, and is one of the best middleweights in the country," said Billy. "I look for him to give Indrisano a furious battle. I believe Boston fans will support the right kind of ring bouts."

Mr. Parks O. O'Brien, Sporting Editor,

BIKE LEADER HOLD LAP EDGE

It is with pleasure and much pride in this New England institution, the Boston American and allied publications, that I take this means of congratulating your organization upon the laudable work it has undertaken in these times of worry, suffering and sacrifice created by unemployment and the depression.

The Boston American, since it first entered the field of news dissemination in New England, has been in the forefront of every movement looking to the betterment of the citizens. Your publication, by aiding in the campaign to interest our citizens to seek the brighter side of life despite the dark days of the present, is but following a long-established and noteworthy policy.

The campaign to instill our citizens, who find themselves with much time on their hands, in recreational pursuits, especially gymnastic work and swimming exercises, both at the Cabot Street Gymnasium and at Curtis Hall, is bound to succeed and result in bettering the mental poise of those your publication, in its campaign, seeks to interest.

Philadelphia, April 27—The arrival of Will Harridge, American League president, anxiously was awaited here this morning by members of the New York Yankees.
For Harridge was to query play- & ers and arbiters regarding the riot of the other day in Washington, as a result of which summary suspension of three players was ordered by Harbridge. Those ruled off are Buddy Myer, Washington infielder; Earl Whitehill, Washington pitcher; and Ben Chapman, New York outfielder.

If Harridge imposes the maximum penalty of a month's suspension and $1000 fine on any or all of the players it may result in much tamer baseball than we have seen which has marked play this season.

The fight broke out again a little later, at the Washington Douthitt, this time between Chapman and Whitehill. Five fans were arrested during the following clash

The joint meeting of the Essex Rains Post and its Ladies Auxiliary was well attended Tuesday evening. The covered dish supper which always precedes the two meetings was a delightful affair, with all kinds of good eats spread up with the usual jokes and jollity of each other. No particular business was transacted—just a good social time was enjoyed.

And maybe 1933 will be remembered as the year in which people started looking forward to the good old days.

Says the Ren. Wiley:
"According to statistics, most gals now marry between eight and ten—there mothers were satisfied with a lot less."

FUN IN THE WELL

Little Willie said to tell, Poured dishwater in the well. Father, thirty, took two sips, Cried "Whoops!" and Then he found a piece of rope And went down in the well, the dope! Called up, "Folks, I'm telling you This tastes to me like three point two."

Thompson says that on their spouses, Mother's lips are rather sticky.

"Tryable with most of our bankers," observes Gertrude, the kitchen cynic, "is that they always look after they leap. And then it's to the government."
